Hagyard Equine Medical Institute and Pharmacy Sponsor Show Jumper Pablo Barrios

May 6, 2015, Lexington, KY—Olympic and World Equestrian Games show-jumping competitor Pablo Barrios has joined the ranks of Hagyard Equine Medical Institute- and Hagyard Reflex^{HA}-sponsored riders.

Pablo competed for his birth country of Venezuela in the Beijing Olympics in 2008; the 1998, 2006, 2011 and 2014 FEI World Equestrian Games; the 2011 FEI World Cup Final and the 2011, 2007 and 1983 Pan Am Games. He is a three-time winner of the Leading Rider Bonus for the Hagyard Challenge Series, a summer-long series of show-jumping grands prix held at the Kentucky Horse Park. Pablo will begin his quest for a fourth leading rider title with the $34,000 Hagyard Lexington Classic CSI2* Thursday, May 7, at 6:30 p.m.

“It seems only right that we should sponsor a three-time Hagyard Challenge Series leading rider,” said Rhonda Rathgeber, DVM, PhD, head of Hagyard’s Sport Horse Program. “And for that to be someone with Pablo’s experience on the world stage is very exciting. We look forward to playing a part in his future success.”

“I have always felt a great connection with Lexington, visualizing it as the perfect place for our horses,” Pablo said. “And it is home to Hagyard Equine Medical Institute, which is unconditionally available to provide its invaluable services. They have been of great support to our sport with the Hagyard Challenge Series and Rider’s Bonus, which I have had the privilege of winning three times. I feel grateful and very optimistic on this partnership, knowing it will produce immense benefits to my horses and career.”

With more than 50 veterinarians and 139 years behind it, the Hagyard Equine Medical Institute is the oldest and one of the largest equine veterinary practices in the world. The institute offers a staff with qualifications unparalleled by any single non-university veterinary group in the equine industry, with 13 board
